SAN DIEGO 2018

THE 77th ANNUAL MEETING OF THE
AMERICAN ASSOCIATION FOR THE SURGERY OF TRAUMA &
CLINICAL CONGRESS OF ACUTE CARE SURGERY and
THE 4th WORLD
TRAUMA CONGRESS

Preliminary Program

President's Message

Michael F. Rotondo, MD
AAST President

Members, Guests, and International Visitors:

I want to extend to you a warm welcome to the 77th Meeting of the American Association for the Surgery of Trauma (AAST) and the 4th World Trauma Congress (WTC). This promises to be a historical gathering of colleagues from across the globe exchanging important scientific information while celebrating our profession and the specialty that we all share. As our world has seemingly become a smaller place, we find ourselves with the unique opportunity to learn from each other while exploring our similarities and differences, to the benefit of ourselves and the patients we serve. I can think of no better forum than this in which to advance our field.

The production of a scientific meeting of this magnitude can only happen after long hours of thought, logistics, preparation, and planning. We owe a tremendous debt of gratitude to the planning committees of both the AAST and the World Coalition for Trauma Care (WCTC) who, independently, and then together, assembled the scientific content and the educational offerings for this meeting. You will find the science to be top notch, the teaching to be of the highest order, and the invited lecturers to be of great interest and value. I also want to extend my thanks to the AAST and the WCTC staff — without you, a meeting such as this simply could not happen. Many thanks to all of you as well! While we are grateful for the work of the program committees and the staff, it's you, our members and guests who submitted abstracts and volunteered to conduct special sessions, to whom we owe special thanks. The substrate that fuels an academic meeting is always provided by its members who offer their best work to be shared in such a forum. This year is no different, and we salute and thank you for your outstanding efforts!

The opportunity to serve as your president has been a tremendous honor and the thrill of a professional lifetime. The theme I used over the course of my term was: "Execute on the Vision." I chose this mantra to maintain clear organizational focus on those strategic and tactical initiatives that are critical to advancing the field of Acute Care Surgery. It's fitting that the richness of the content of this long-awaited, combined scientific meeting moves us yet another step closer to our goal. Thank you again for your support. I look forward to seeing you in the scientific sessions and at the numerous social events. Enjoy!

In keeping with Dr. Coimbra's strategic plan and 2017 presidential address, Emergency General Surgery presessions; oral, poster, and Quick Shot presentations; and lunch sessions will be highlighted.

The social program will also be exceptional. This year we will have a reception on Thursday evening onboard the USS Midway and, of course, the annual banquet on Friday evening. Make your plans early. I look forward to seeing you in sunny San Diego in September.

World Coalition for Trauma Care Chairman's Message

Raul Coimbra, MD, PhD

WCTC Executive Director and President of the 4th World Trauma Congress

It is an honor and privilege to have the AAST and the World Coalition for Trauma Care (WCTC) partner to sponsor the 4th World Trauma Congress (WTC) in conjunction with the 77th Annual Meeting of the AAST and Clinical Congress of Acute Care Surgery.

San Diego in September will be the home of the two meetings, which will have fantastic scientific and educational programs. As customary for the WTC, surgeons, nurses, and other health care professionals will gather to present, discuss, and learn important aspects of trauma care and systems development during the meeting. More than 50 countries will be represented in the meeting: a terrific opportunity to connect, and develop relationships and collaborations with professionals from different countries. A very exciting social program is also planned. The highlight will be a cocktail party on the deck of the famous USS Midway aircraft carrier, stationed at the San Diego Bay. Join us in September for unforgettable moments of good science, camaraderie, and fun. See you then.

Mission:

Increase awareness of the importance of trauma as a disease worldwide

Trauma Education at all levels worldwide

Development of trauma systems worldwide

Continuation of the World Trauma Congress

Program Chairman's Message

David Spain, MD
WTC Program Chairman

Dear Members and Attendees:

A joint AAST/World Trauma Congress program committee meeting was held in April. Dr. Reilly and his crew have put together an outstanding program for the AAST.

We received an incredible amount of interest in the WTC. We received over 20 suggestions for the three WTC panel sessions that will take place during the AAST Annual Meeting. These three panels will include numerous international speakers, giving us their perspectives on pelvis hemorrhage control, coagulopathy, and pro/con debates on controversial topics. We will also have over 24 keynote speakers, which will consist of a 12-minute "state-of-the-art" lecture given by an international expert followed by 5 scientific abstract presentations in thematic sessions.

This portion of the program is looking very exciting, and should bring numerous international attendees from Europe, South America, and Asia. This will be an incredible opportunity to meet our international colleagues, learn from each other, make connections, and establish collaborations. Please make an extra effort this year to attend these sessions and welcome our colleagues from around the world.

Dr. Christine (Tina) Gaarder, Consultant General and Trauma Surgeon, is the head of the Department of Traumatology at Oslo University Hospital Ullevål (OUH U). The only high-volume trauma center in Norway, OUH U covers a population of 2.8 million and admits approximately 700 patients with ISS>15 per year.

Dr. Gaarder served as the clinical head of the Trauma Unit in the Division of Surgery at Oslo University Hospital from 2005–2010, where she received her degrees; and within that time, as a consultant surgeon in the Trauma Unit at Johannesburg General Hospital, South Africa (2006–2007). She founded OUHU's dedicated Trauma Service in 2005, and later initiated the National Trauma Competency Service in Norway.

A true innovator and creator of trauma courses and programs, Dr. Gaarder continues her extensive and remarkable teaching career. Among other accomplishments, she has been an ATLS instructor and director since the program's inaugural course in Norway in September of 2004. She is also the course director and national coordinator of the Definitive Surgical Trauma Care (DSTC) program, which has more than 25 courses in Norway to date. She has chaired the Trauma Committee of the Norwegian Surgical Society since 2008, and throughout her career, she has been heavily involved in the development and revision of the Norwegian trauma system. She has been a member of the Norwegian Society for Trauma, Emergency, and Disaster Medicine; the National Committee for the development of National Trauma System, the National Committee for the evaluation of a new specialty in Emergency Medicine for Norway, and the National Committee for the revision of Norway's national trauma system plan. Dr. Gaarder is the current president of the International Association for Trauma Surgery and Intensive Care (IATSIC) and the chair of the Visceral Trauma Section in the European Society for Trauma and Emergency Surgery.

In addition to running a broad trauma research program covering a wide range of trauma clinical and epidemiological topics, as well as injury prevention, Dr. Gaarder is the chief investigator of an ongoing RCT on SAE for grades 4 and 5 splenic injuries. And she is one of the founders of the International Trauma Research Network (INTRN), a multi-center research consortium that is currently running an EU-funded project including an RCT in trauma resuscitation.

Damage Control and Firearm Deaths: 'A Tale of Two Cities!'

C. William Schwab, MD

C. William Schwab has been an international contributor to the field of trauma surgery, and an academic surgeon with special interests in the management of severe injury, surgical education, and injury prevention. While founding the trauma center and flight programs at the University of Pennsylvania, Dr. Schwab and the Penn Team pioneered many aspects of Damage Control Surgery, an approach to life-threatening injury now integral to trauma surgery worldwide. From his experiences with the United States Navy, Dr. Schwab coined the phrase damage control to emphasize the need to control bleeding with unconventional techniques to improve survival. Beyond his scholastic work, Dr. Schwab has been recognized for his work in developing trauma systems and for developing hospitals to be trauma centers. Bill established the concept of a trauma network by partnering trauma center hospitals under a common managing entity for cost-effective data analysis, performance improvement, education, training, and business management.

As an educator, the impact of his post-graduate training programs in trauma, emergency, and critical care surgery can be felt worldwide. These programs have graduated over 140 surgeons and physicians, many of whom now serve as well-known leaders in academic medicine and global surgery. Under his leadership, the academic division at Penn developed interdisciplinary post-graduate and fellowship programs in basic science, translational, and clinical research, which have been supported by the NIH, the CDC, and funding from the public health sectors. A characteristic of the research mission championed by Bill was to direct support to international and North American scientists from the trauma and injury communities.

Dr. Schwab has over 250 peer-reviewed publications, and has co-edited four textbooks about clinical trauma care, ballistic injury, and damage control management. He has been awarded honorary memberships in the Royal College of Surgeons of Scotland (Glasgow), the Swedish Surgical Association, and the European Society of Trauma and Emergency Surgery. Bill has served as the President of the American Association for the Surgery of Trauma, the Eastern Association for the Surgery of Trauma, and the International Association for Trauma

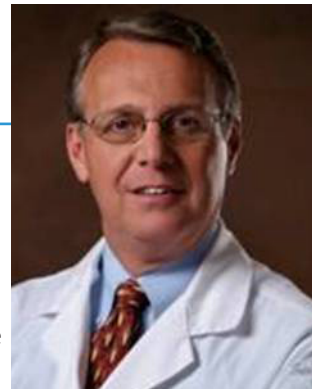

Surgery and Intensive Care. He has also served on two National Academies of Science, Engineering, and Medicine committees to evaluate and recommend improvements in emergency care and, most recently, to enhance civilian and military partnerships in effort to expand trauma care and disaster response.

In 2008, for his work in addressing the toll of firearm injury, Dr. Schwab was given the National Safety Council Surgeons Award for Service to Safety by American College of Surgeons and the American Association for the Surgery of Trauma. In 2017, Bill was honored at the University of Pennsylvania with the establishment of the C. William Schwab Endowed Professorship in Traumatology, Surgical Critical Care, and Emergency Surgery.

Dr. Schwab received his surgical training in the United States Navy and served on active duty from 1970–1980. He has remained a strong advocate for improving military trauma training: In response to Operations Iraqi Freedom and Operation Enduring Freedom, 20 surgeons from the trauma unit at Penn deployed as combat surgeons. He used their collective experience from the battlefield to develop the recommendations he gave in his Scudder Oration in Trauma at the American College of Surgeons in 2014. His white paper “The Winds of War: Military-Civilian Partnership for Training, Education, and Readiness,” has been a provocative call for modernizing how military trauma teams are trained for battlefield deployment and combat casualty care.

Dr. Schwab is a graduate of Ithaca College (1968) and SUNY Upstate Medical University (1972), and he completed his surgical residency at the Navy Regional Medical Center in Portsmouth, VA (1972–77). He is married to his college sweetheart, Marjorie Rooke Schwab, and they have 3 children (Jennifer Medina, RN; C. William Schwab II, MD; and Timothy Schwab, DVM).

Dr. Schwab was awarded an honorary Doctor of Letters by Ithaca College in 2012 for his service to the College as a Trustee and Board Chair (2006–2012).

MILITARY AND CIVILIAN TRAUMA SYSTEM INTEGRATION: WHERE HAVE WE COME, WHERE ARE WE GOING, AND WHAT CAN WE LEARN FROM OUR INTERNATIONAL PARTNERS

Sponsored by the Military Liaison Committee/International Relations Committee

Moderators: Joseph Galante, MD, Steve Smith, MD, and Michel Aboutanos, MD, MPH

The US military have seen great successes in the last two decades of war. The development of the Joint Trauma System and revolutionizing transport of critically injured patients resulting in the lowest Case Fatality Rates in history. Unfortunately, during inter-war period lessons learned are lost that not only have to be relearned but result in a lower survival rate at the beginning of the next conflict. Enormous efforts are currently underway to preserve those lessons learned and keep the military force ready to deploy not only with equitable, if not superior skills, than our predecessors. Success requires the multifaceted efforts of military and civilian surgeons, administrators, military leadership and Congress. In the last 2 years laws have been passed that will change the future military force as well as military surgical readiness. This session will focus on how we will take advantage of recently passed legislation to help ensure we do not repeat the mistakes of the past, implement effective change, and develop a trauma-ready, enduring future military force.

HANDS-ON LAPAROSCOPIC COMMON BILE DUCT EXPLORATION

Sponsored by the Acute Care Surgery Committee

Speakers: Eric Hugness, MD Ezra Teitelbaum, MD, Fernando Santos, MD, and Dennis Kim, MD Moderator: Matthew Bloom, MD

In the didactic session, participants will learn the set-up, equipment needed, different options, and necessary steps for a laparoscopic common bile duct exploration even in the acute setting. Participants will also review the interpretation of the difficult cholangiogram and surgical tips for a safe and successful cholecystectomy. The selection of patients for MRCP/ERCP and surgical bile duct exploration will be reviewed. Videos and discussion of challenging cases and alternative techniques will give participants the tools necessary to navigate difficult cases successfully. Finally, a Q&A panel session will complete the didactic component.

In the hands-on laboratory portion, each student will have the chance to do a laparoscopic common bile duct exploration with clearance of the common bile duct using a video choledochoscope and basket extraction techniques on a simulator. There will be a 1:3 ratio of instructor to students so surgeons should have multiple opportunities to perform the procedure. Proper endoscope usage and set-up will also be reviewed. At the end of the course, surgeons should feel comfortable performing this procedure in the acute setting.

How to Plan a Successful Peer-reviewed Manuscript: Avoiding Errors Before Submission

Sponsored By: The Journal of Trauma and Acute Care Surgery

Speakers: E. Earnest Moore, MD, and Angela Sauaia, MD, PhD

Moderator: Steven Shackford, MD

Common flaws in submitted manuscripts leading to rejection or major revision can be avoided with proper planning and review by the authors. These common flaws will be discussed as well as ways to avoid them.

SBO: OR Before Sunset or Let the Sun Set?

Sponsored By: AAST Acute Care Surgery Committee

Speakers: Gary Verbruggen, MD; Eric Toschlog, MD; and Nathan Mowery, MD

Moderator: Stephanie Savage, MD

Optimal management of SBO remains controversial. As one of the most common conditions encountered by acute care surgeons, a review of relevant literature, current practices, and potential management protocols is essential.

Controversy or Common Sense? Regionalization of Emergency General Surgery

Sponsored By: Patient Assessment Committee

Speakers: Shahid Shafi, MD, MPH, MBA; Larry Lottenberg, MD;

Heena Santry, MD; and Lillian Kao, MD

Moderator: Marie Crandall, MD, MPH

The field of acute care surgery encompasses trauma, critical care, and emergency general surgery. As our ability to risk stratify and compare outcomes for EGS patients has rapidly evolved, the idea has been posited that EGS outcomes might be improved if care of the most critically ill patients was regionalized. However, as EGS has traditionally been part of the foundation of general surgery, this may be financially and ideologically devastating to community general surgeons. In this lunch session, we hope to present balanced looks at advantages and disadvantages of regionalization and possibly begin to negotiate some of the areas of potential conflict.

Grassroots Legislative Advocacy: A Story is Worth 181 Votes "The World is Run by Those Who Show Up"

Sponsored By: Pediatric Trauma Surgery Committee and Prevention Committee

Speakers: Peter Masiakos, MD, and Senator Steven Baddour

Moderators: Richard Falcone, MD and Deborah Kuhls, MD

In this 40-minute talk, Dr. Masiakos and Senator Baddour will discuss their coordinated approach to state advocacy and the fundamental importance of their sustained relationship, which was responsible for the legislative successes in Massachusetts. We'll learn of their chance meeting and how they established a working relationship that neither thought was possible. The talk will end with a report on the outcomes of several of the laws that they helped to pass.

Simulation Training for Civilian and Military Trauma: Advances and Challenges

Sponsored By: Educational Development/MOC Committee

Speakers: Elizabeth Benjamin, MD, PhD; Megan Brenner, MD, MSc; and Travis Polk, MD

Moderator: Mark Bowyer, MD

- With decreasing trauma volumes and increasing nonoperative management, simulation training is becoming a key element in trauma training. This lunch session will cover the new advances and challenges in both civilian and military trauma training.
- Drs. Mark Bowyer, Elizabeth Benjamin, Megan Brenner, and Travis Polk are in a unique position to run this session because of their in-depth involvement in collaborative, civilian-military partnerships in trauma training and their unique experiences with advanced simulation models.

Post-Intensive Care Syndrome (PICS): The Underappreciated ICU Morbidity

Sponsored By: Critical Care Committee

Speakers: Karyn Butler, MD; Kimberly Joseph, MD; and Orlando Kirton, MD

Moderator: Karen Brasel, MD, MPH

Recent data suggest that patients who have prolonged ICU stays, are mechanically ventilated, and/or who have sepsis in the ICU are 30–50 percent more likely to develop Post-Intensive Care Syndrome (PICS). Nearly half of these patients still require some form of care one year after their ICU stay: they have cognitive, physical, and psychological impairments that affect their functioning; their impairments impact and affect the ability of their families to function as well. This lunch session will focus on: (1) recognizing the signs/symptoms of PICS (Ephron), (2) evidence-informed steps intensivists can take to try to prevent PICS (Kirton), and (3) what resources are available to surgeons who encounter patients with signs/symptoms of PICS (Butler).

FRIDAY LUNCH SESSIONS

Establishing a Translational Research Career in Acute Care Surgery: Early, Mid-, and Late-Career Milestones

Sponsored By: Education Development/MOC Committee

Speakers: Alicia Mohr, MD; Mitchell Cohen, MD; Rosemary Kozar, MD, PhD

Moderator: Raul Coimbra, MD, PhD

This lunch session will provide an overview of research focused on the translation of basic science investigation to bedside applicability in acute care surgery. The panelists will present key milestones in the timeline for establishing a successful translational research career. Milestones discussed will include establishment of mentorship relationships, strategies to secure institutional and departmental support for research efforts, options for grant funding, and time management structuring to allow ongoing clinical engagement, particularly for early career investigators.

Palliative Care 2018: Implementing the TQIP Best Practice Guideline

Sponsored By: Critical Care Committee

Speakers: Anne Mosenthal, MD; Gail Tominaga, MD; and David Zonies, MD, MPH

Moderator: David Zonies, MD, MPH

Description: In 2018, the Acute Care Surgery Committee on Trauma released the Palliative Care Best Practice Guidelines. This was a major advance in codifying the role of palliative care in trauma center operations. Palliative care is emerging as complimentary skill set in the comprehensive care of the trauma patient. The moderator and presenters for this session were integral in the development of the TQIP Palliative Care Best Practice Guideline.

This session will be divided into three parts:

1. High-level review of palliative care delivery (Cooper):
 - Primary delivery (trauma / ICU service)
 - Secondary delivery (formal palliative care service when available)
 - Screening process for palliative care delivery (case-based)
2. A discussion on implementing and sustaining efforts for an inter-professional team (nurses, physicians, residents/trainees, and advanced-practice providers) in the delivery of high-quality palliative care for trauma patients (Tominaga).
3. A practical approach to using the TQIP Best Practice Guideline gap analysis toolbox. The toolbox will help centers to identify areas of strength and weakness as they continue integrating palliative care along the continuum of care (Mosenthal). Examples include:
 - Patient screening
 - Transitions in care
 - Documentation
 - Performance improvement

The Difficult Cholecystectomy

Sponsored By: ACS/SAGES

Speakers: Andrew Peitzman, MD; Dana Tellem, MD

Moderator: Robert Mackersie, MD

Description: Tricks and tips for the laparoscopic and open management of difficult cholecystectomies will be discussed.

The Opioid Epidemic: Challenges for the Acute Care Surgeon

Sponsored By: Communications Committee

Speakers: Matthew Bennis, MD; Patrick Kim, MD; and William Bromberg, MD

Moderator: Matthew Bennis, MD

The opioid epidemic has become a national public health crisis in the United States. According to the US Department of Health and Human Services, over 11 million people misuse opioids, and over 42,000 people die from opioid overdose each year. This epidemic has created ripple effects in all areas of medicine, but has led to some challenges in the care of trauma and acute care surgery patients. Surgeons must constantly balance what are obvious and legitimate indications for narcotic pain control with the concerns of addiction and abuse. Further, a considerable number of patients (20 percent per a 2014 J Trauma study) may present with longstanding use and tolerance of opioids that can make efforts at appropriate analgesia a considerable challenge.

The invited discussants will briefly outline strategies to treat pain in the climate of the opioid epidemic to include:

- Best practices to control pain and minimize subsequent addiction in opioid naïve patients
- Best practices for non-narcotic and regional pain control in the trauma patient
- Best practices to control pain in the opioid-dependent patient

TXA Beyond CRASH-2 — Controversies and the Global Perspective

Sponsored By: International Relations Committee

Speakers: Jana MacLeod, MD; Gustavo Fraga, MD, PhD; and Lena Napolitano, MD, MPH

Moderator: Michel Aboutanos, MD, MPH; and Rochelle Dicker, MD

The Clinical Randomization of an Antifibrinolytic in Significant Hemorrhage trial (CRASH-2) has generated some significant controversies in the US since its publication in 2010. For US trauma centers, the controversies arise regarding CRASH-2 trial methodology, conclusions, and its applicability to modern US civilian trauma centers. These controversies are not shared in Europe or low- and middle-income countries

(LMIC) where TXA use remains ubiquitous. In this session, the IRC aims to highlight the global perspective on the use of TXA, its applicability in US prehospital and hospital settings, and whether US concerns are globally applicable to LMIC where resources, especially blood products, are scarce.

Physician Resilience, Burnout, and the Work-Life Balance

Sponsored By: Education Development/MOC Committee

Speakers: Gregory Jurkovich, MD, Kimberly Davis, MD, MBA, and Carlos Brown, MD

Moderator: Bellal Joseph, MD

- Resilience is the capacity to respond to stress in a healthy way such that goals are achieved at minimal psychological and physical cost; resilient individuals “bounce back” after challenges while also growing stronger. Resilience is a key to enhancing quality of care, quality of caring, and the sustainability of the health-care workforce. Yet, ways of identifying and promoting resilience have been elusive. Resilience depends on individual, community, and institutional factors.
- The quality and safety of patient care, and indeed the very vitality of our health care systems, depends heavily on high-functioning physicians. Yet recent data have revealed an extraordinarily high and increasing prevalence of physician burnout, which is defined as emotional exhaustion, interpersonal disengagement, and a low sense of personal accomplishment. Considering compelling evidence that burnout negatively affects patient care, health-care leaders are rightly alarmed and are searching for answers.
- The ability to balance between clinical work, research, education, and family has gotten more complicated in modern academic centers. Trauma Surgery itself has the added stress of case volume and severity. Discussion will lead on ways to both improve oneself in the work realm as well as in one’s home life.

SPECIAL SESSION:

ORTHOPEDIC TRAUMA ASSOCIATION PROGRAM ON FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 28TH

The Orthopaedic Trauma Association (OTA) is honored to participate with the AAST in the 77th Annual Meeting of AAST and Clinical Congress of Acute Care Surgery & 4th World Trauma Congress. Like the AAST, the OTA is dedicated to advancing the care of injured patients and enabling surgeons to provide excellent care.

In this session, OTA members will present cutting-edge issues in the management of orthopaedic emergencies, “damage control” and the prevention and treatment of complications in the orthopaedic trauma. Musculoskeletal injury remains a critical aspect in the treatment of trauma patients, and these presentations are appropriate for all members of the team. Participants will better understand how these injuries affect the resuscitation and recovery of these patients as well as how fracture care affects the overall patient’s wellbeing.
